ABSTRACT

An automated authentication handling system for use by clients on a network including a plurality of application servers connected to the network, each requiring authentication for access and an authentication server adapted to authenticate at least one of the clients and establish a

5   trusted communication link for access by an authenticated user to at least one of the application servers.